The Standard

William Glasmann, Publisher.
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
(Established 1870.)

This paper will always fight for progress and reform, it will not knowingly tolerate injustice or corruption and will always fight demagogues of all parties; it will oppose privileged classes and public plunderers; it will never lack sympathy with the poor; it will always remain devoted to the public welfare and will never be satisfied with merely printing news; it will always be drastically independent and will never be afraid to attack wrong, whether committed by the rich or the poor.

WHEAT CROP OF THE COUNTRY

The corn crop in Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa is almost a failure and the crop throughout the country is 666,000,000 bushels short of the earlier estimates of the government. But that is not a calamity as the yield will be over two billion bushels.

The loss in corn is almost made up by a bumper crop of wheat. The yield of winter and spring grain is placed at 6,000,000 bushels larger than the biggest crop this country has ever produced.

This good news from the wheat fields will do much to help restore the confidence in business that trade conditions of late have warranted.

STORM BREWING FOR TAMMANY

That Sulzer has popular sentiment behind him in New York state is made evident by the letters that are pouring into the papers, denouncing Tammany's crushing of the governor. The Denver News sees in this protest the coming of a storm which is to overwhelm the conspirators, and says:

"The legislators who went into the conspiracy and for a brief space played some fantastic tricks at Albany are hearing from their people back home. In fact, many of them have heard, with the result that they are not going back as legislators, however they may fare as janitors and messenger boys.

"We read in the New York newspapers hostile to Sulzer that assemblymen in Nassau, Herkimer, Onondaga, Niagara, Ontario and other counties have been denied renominations 'because they voted for the impeachment of Sulzer.' The New York World tearfully repeats that it 'continues to receive a flood of letters from its readers disagreeing vehemently with its attitude on the Sulzer campaign contributions.' The Hearst newspapers, not having, of course, any of the sense of fair play of the World, refuses to publish its 'flood of letters,' but it has been hearing strong denunciations of its unscrupulous attacks on the governor and its thinly veiled alliance with Tammany in the interest of Mr. Hearst's political ambitions.

"But no surer thing has developed in New York state in a long time than that its people are behind Governor Sulzer, not in isolated districts, but in every county and section outside the territory and creatures that are Tammany's own. They have flocked to his support regardless of politics, of newspaper attacks and of the lying slanders of the conspirators whose subway connection runs between Tammany hall and Wall street. This is the best sign we have had for years that the people of the Empire state are not unlike those of other commonwealths, when organized gangs of grafters seek to entrench themselves in a state government. Especially have they made this truth very evident when they realized that the object was the ruin of a governor whose chief offense is that he wanted to give the people who elected him a clean, competent and honest administration and rescue them from the clutches of an organized gang of political highwaymen masquerading as Democrats."

SHOULD SEE THE WORK ON THE DAM.

The bedrock across the damsite in South Fork canyon is now exposed from the south cliffs to the extreme north side, and within the next few days, possibly by Saturday, the work of building a great structure of reinforced concrete will begin on this foundation of the everlasting rocks of mother earth. Before the great trench, that at a cost of thousands of dollars has exposed to view the bedrock, is obliterated by the filling in process of those who are to erect the mighty walls that are to hold back a lake of water, the people of Ogden—the business men and property holders generally who are interested in this city's welfare—should visit the site of the dam and see for themselves how thoroughly the work of making possible a Greater Ogden is being performed.

Some of the money—yes, a big part of the money—that is going into the construction of the foundation of the dam is coming from the taxpayers of Ogden and they should be sufficiently interested to investigate the project and inquire as to the manner in which their funds are being expended. Those directly in charge of the construction and the city commissioners are pleased with the progress that has been made and with the assurances of ultimate success that each day's labor discloses, and they are urging the taxpayers to visit the South Fork excavation that they may judge for themselves the merits of the undertaking.

When the final word has been said by Samuel Fortier, the government engineer, whose services have been offered to Ogden City without cost, and who is expected to arrive within the next few days, the concrete will begin to pour down to bedrock in the great trench and soon the base, on which is to rise a dam of great proportions, will entirely occupy the opening. And that will be the beginning of a new era for Ogden and all this beautiful country which, to be made more beautiful and populous, must have the life-giving water that at flood season is to be stored, and, in the hot summer days, allowed to flow down from the man-made lake in the mountains to the thirsting soil of the valley.

TRYING TO MISLEAD THE PEOPLE

The Salt Lake Tribune contends that because the trusts have been leaving New Jersey, to make their legal homes in Delaware, it is useless for states such as New Jersey to attempt to curb those organizations. The same reasoning would discourage all state legislation that could be temporarily evaded by virtue of other states failing to do their full duty. That argument is too specious to deceive any one. New Jersey should be for the right, regardless of other states. Eventually that state's leadership will bring its reward by all states following the good example set them.

The Tribune evidently would temporize on great issues and ignore principle. That is one of the besetting sins of those papers that are everlastingly apologizing for the powerful, predatory rich.

AS TO THE INCOME TAX MEASURE

The newspapers opposed to the income tax are claiming that when the constitutional amendment was being ratified no one even hinted that the tax would be imposed except as an emergency measure to raise revenue for the government.

The statement is not true. There has been a growing demand for an income tax ever since the supreme court of the United States, in Cleveland's second administration, declared the tax unconstitutional. At that time the tax was proposed as in part a substitute for the tariff tax, in fact the enactment by congress was a companion measure of the Wilson bill.

When the people, through their legislative bodies, voted to ratify the income tax amendment to the constitution, they must have had in mind the Cleveland application of the tax, as out of the supreme court's action on the Cleveland measure grew the public demand that led to the new form of taxation.

CONSUMPTION CURED BY A CHEMIST

Once more hope is aroused that consumption is to be conquered. A young Sardinian, who saw his sisters, one after another, die of the terrible disease, has found a cure, according to the following which is reproduced from the Salt Lake Telegram:

The young man was a chemist in Iglesias, Sardinia. The chemist's shop had descended from father to son for generations. The deaths of his family determined him to devote his life to trying to find a cure for tuberculosis. He has devoted his time for ten years to that one purpose. He first experimented on mice, pigs, and sheep, and finally upon himself, as he, too, was threatened with the disease. Lately he appeared in Rome as Dr. Mario Nurchis, announcing that he could cure tuberculosis. Dr. Carboni, threatened with the disease, took the treatment, and says of it: "It is a wonder and will be the greatest scientific discovery of the twentieth century."

The remedy is called Nurchisina. It is given in injections and has the same effect on consumption that antitoxin

NAISBITT-HARRIS.

One of the prettiest of the season's home weddings was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Naisbitt, 1848 Washington avenue, when Mr. Naisbitt gave his daughter, Cecelia E., to Lloyd Harris in marriage. Bishop Olsen of the Fourth ward pronounced the nuptial ceremony with sixty or more guests present to offer congratulations and best wishes. The home was beautifully decorated with the flowers of the season. Pink and white flowers and streamers were effectively combined in the parlor. A pretty canopy of pink and white was formed with festoons from the chandelier to the corners of the room, and in one corner a floral bower was arranged for the bride and groom. In the dining room red and white flowers and festoons of red and white hearts, together with the brilliant electric lighting made, together with the perfectly laid tables, a lovely autumn scene.

The centerpiece of bright red flowers was an added touch of beauty at the bride's table and the best of the season's delicacies comprised the bountiful wedding supper.

Promptly at 8:30 the bridal party entered the parlor to the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Jessie Holther, cousin of the bride. The bride leaning on the arm of her father was followed by the maid of honor, Ethel Naisbitt, best man, W. D. Shaw, and Mrs. Naisbitt, and was met at the altar by the groom and Bishop Olsen. Patriarch George W. Larkin pronounced a blessing upon the happy pair that was both beautiful and touching.

Following the nuptial ceremony and the offering of congratulations the wedding supper was served and toasts to the bride and groom, speeches, witty and apropos, and the offering of best wishes from all present, together with general merrymaking retained the young couple under the parental roof until a late hour, when at last amid the usual shower of rice and old shoes they escaped in the auto for their honeymoon trip.

The bride was lovely in cream white brocade charmed daintily trimmed with real lace and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses. The bridesmaid wore a dainty gown of pink crepe de chine and carried a shower of delicate pink flowers, and Mrs. Naisbitt was handsomely gowned in cream white silk with overtones of lace net, heavily embroidered.

Many beautiful gifts were tokens of love and esteem to the happy pair. Cut glass, silver, handpainted china, pictures, fine embroidered linen pieces and numerous useful and ornamental articles were among the wedding remembrances.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Harris will be at home to their friends at their pretty bungalow on Canyon road, where they will remain until their new home is completed.

LINDH-EKLUND

Clarence Eklund and Miss Eva Lindh were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 419 Twenty-second street Wednesday evening September 10, 1913, at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Bishop O. M. Sanderson. Miss Jennie Eklund sister of the groom and Robert Palm acted as bridesmaid and best man. The bride was beautiful in a white chiffon over taffeta silk trimmed with gold and white real
